

NOW BOARDING

A Taste of our Travels

This is arguably our most ambitious menu to date, taking into consideration the many years and tens of thousands of miles we've journeyed around the world.

Yes, we've imbibed our fair share of Bellinis in Venice and Aperol Spritzes in Milan. But we've also paced the narrow streets of Amsterdam in the evening rain, looking for the smallest symbol on an unassuming door, the only clue to what was on the other side: a speakeasy serving craft cocktails with a dozen ingredients each. It was no easy feat to reverse engineer each recipe from what was written on menus or from photos we took while enjoying these incredible drinks for the first time. Some required homemade ingredients to be meticulously made – cardamom syrup, sage cordial, and passion fruit foam – honed over iterations to get every sip just right.

Only a travel-themed design motif would do for this globe-trotting menu, inspired by the maps we pored over for our next destination and the split-flap display boards we studied in train stations and airports across the world. How do you make those ideas look good and cohesive? Ask Kelsey, she's the master of bringing my ideas to life – turning my one-sentence pitch into the finished product you'll see in the following pages.

Simple in concept yet complex in execution, this menu is ready to transport you to the amazing places we've visited. We hope you enjoy.
