INSPIRATION FOR THIS MENU

We're celebrating summer with a throwback to Tiki Culture and the jetsetting ways that inspired the movement (1940s-1970s). As American service members returned from World War II, their idealized vision of the South Pacific and its many cultures gave way to myriad themed restaurants and bars. Many classic Tiki cocktails were created by two famous bartenders: Trader Vic and Don the Beachcomber, largely considered the two founders of the tiki bar concept.

These boozy yet dynamic drinks lean heavily on one of the world's most compelling spirits: rum. It often gets a bad rap due to poor quality and artificial lookalike spirits served to young drinkers, but TRUE rum is amazingly diverse and intensely flavored. Rum is primarily found in the Caribbean and Central America, but can be produced anywhere sugarcane is grown: South America, Africa, Southeast Asia, Australia, and even the Southeastern United States. Every bottle provides a glimpse into the region that produced it, as well as their unique distillation methods.

The goal with this menu was to share an exciting mix of classic and new-wave Tiki drinks. With so many historical cocktails to draw from and nuance to navigate, Tiki-themed menus are the most difficult for us to design. My challenging theme ideas make extra work for Kelsey, but this year's menu includes some of our best work.

This is also the first menu to feature a designated nonalcoholic section! While in the past I've had a rotating selection, this season offers three specific (and delicious) choices for guests abstaining from alcohol.
